SWIFTER THAN THE SUNLIGHT.

AN ELECTRIC CURRENT OVER THE GLOBE IN THREE SECONDS.

PHILADELPHIA scientists are preparing to find out how fast an electric current travels.

An experiment will be made, probably from the Atlantic cable to Liverpool and return.

The first record experiment was made by Mr. McCall, Glasgow, Scotland.

The current was transmitted in Montreal, was transferred to the cable of the Newfoundland cable station by means of Thompson's mirror galvanometer.

The distance traversed, partly by wire, and partly by cable, was 5,000 miles.

From the time the current left the key in Montreal until it returned to the receiver in the same office just one second and one twentieth of a second had elapsed; but the conditions were not as good as they might have been, hence the further experiment to be made here.

The rapidity with which the current travels over short wires with no delay is well known.

Unlimited possibilities in the direction of practical tests. Prof. Marks of the Edison Electric Light Company is authority for the assertion that if the globe was encircled with the electric cable a current would travel the entire distance in a trifle over 30 seconds.

At this rate a current would travel to the moon, covering a distance of 98,000 miles, in three and a half minutes.

In this age of science, said one of the experimenters, it will participate in the experiments, "people have an idea that we know so much now there is nothing more to be discovered. Why are you yet in the infancy as far as electricity goes."

New discoveries are being made, and we will live to see the day when the electric cable will encircle the entire world. The experiment which we are about to make in telegraphing the hemisphere is in many respects other and more startling experiments. The establishment of telephone communication between the hemisphere is in many respects other and more startling experiments.

Learn a Trade.

A Chicago correspondent writes in a contemporary paper that there is a great number of unemployed Canadians in this city.

There are thousands of them, and most of them with good education. In my opinion, the best way to get out of the unemployment of your people is being overdone.

When they leave college, they are of no service to the country. I could write you a book full of advice about men who have gone through the Toronto University, and are working here for $20 a month.

I put an advertisement in the paper here for a book-keeper. A Canadian came to the office, and offered to do the work for $20 a month.

This was last fall and the state of things is not much better now than it was then, and the same thing is true of the other professions.

New School Laws.
At the last session of the Ontario Legislature, some important changes were made in the school laws. Some of these it is important to draw attention to for municipal officers, and rural school trustees. It provides for the payment by each township annually to each school board of the whole of the previous year, of the sum of one hundred dollars over and above all school grants. Sections in which schools have been kept for less than six months are entitled to nothing from the township for the year. These schools have been open between six months and the whole year are entitled to a part of the hundred dollars proportionate to the part of the year during which the schools have been in operation. Each union school section is entitled to the hundred dollar grant, but each municipality of which the union school section is composed has to provide a part in proportion to the part of the whole assessed property of the section which lies within the municipality. Sections in which more than one teacher is employed are entitled to an additional fifty dollars for each additional teacher.

An illustration will perhaps make this clearer. Stirling village and portions of Rawdon and Sidney. Its school has four teachers. According to the provisions of the law to which we have referred, the section will be entitled to a new grant of $250. This sum has to be raised by the municipalities of Stirling, Rawdon and Sidney in the ratio that the total assessed value of the section, included in the section, bears to the total assessed value of the township in which any of these municipalities, bears to the whole assessed value of the Union school section.

This new provision of the law will commend itself, we are sure, to the good sense of all who will see the need of a more uniform and will do much to lessen the system and unjust inequalities which have heretofore existed in the location of school taxes. The change will not increase the whole amount raised in each municipality for school purposes but will lower the section rates of school taxation.

Chatterbox Chips.
The farmers are pretty well through with their haying, and fall grain is nearly all out, and now they are into the barley. Fall wheat will average well. Spring grain of all kinds seem good.

Coolley's mansion is roofed in and is an imposing structure with its out stone corners and many bays.

Raspberries are very plentiful in this region, and you can see them, children, and doctors are securing them.

Huckleberries are out. The children are out and perhaps it is a little previous for them.

There was another open air baptism at the Lake last Sunday, which drew a large crowd than the first. There were nearly 2000 persons present or near present as they would get. The priest was incensed.

W. D. Smith, George Bangor and Jas. Birrell, intend going out next week to help the Manitoulin lake for their harvest. They will have a mutual advantage.

Canadian Cheese Achead.
The New York Bulletin has the following: "It may be remembered that the fair of the Dairyman's Association of Ontario, held last fall at Belleville, special prize for the finest large cheese, 100 pounds or over; cheese to be made any time between 1st of August and 6th of September, both dates inclusive." A prize each for colored and white. The winning cheeses were sent to the city. The contest was won by M. J. Fargill, who cut it up for exhibition and trial last October. The white cheese was made by the late Mr. Fargill, and the colored cheese was made by the late Mr. Fargill.

The most excellent and promising character, and the parcel held appears to verify in all particulars the high praise which has been given to the quality, the general verdict of those who are experts looking it to be a perfect cheese. These cheeses were made by Mr. S. Devery of Warwick, who carried off a first prize in 100 lb. class, and the results afford much satisfaction to the champions of the Canadian product.

The Crop Outlook.
A Toronto dispatch says: "Agriculture which has been in Ontario particularly in the western part of the province, is well under way and the crops are well advanced. The fact that the yield will be even larger than the anticipations of a few weeks ago is predicted. Fall wheat promises to yield an average 10 to 15 bushels per acre last year.

Wheat, barley, oats, and in fact all cereals promise a magnificent return. So far spring crops are well advanced.

In the eastern part of the province rains have been somewhat excessive and it is feared that the barley may be damaged in color, to the west no such complaints are heard, the crop is excellent.

In Manitoba and the Northwest, although the crops are ten days late, the outlook is excellent.

The Muck-All Trip.

At 3 minutes after 12 a.m. on Monday, July 30th, five lovers of the Muck-All trip left the shores of Rawdon creek for the shores of Crow Lake.

In the party were Injun Joe, Old man 'frail' of his horse, Bill Beaver, Cuneo and Long Jim, the lovers of the Muck-All trip. A detachment of the Stirling Brass Band accompanied the party as far as Crow Lake and around the several slumbers living by the wayside, with sweet strains of music.

A later break in the morning mist, which was launched on far-famed Crow Lake, just as the sun made his appearance on the East was well known as an excellent musician.

By the time they reached the head of the lake their next meal was supplied; Injun Joe had brought a venison soup, longer. Entering Crow river their difficulties began. Five rapids had to be pored and to be overcome by the party was a difficult task.

At the second rapid a little accident occurred, which might have resulted fatally. Long Jim losing his balance was thrown in the whirlpool, but by the exertions of himself and Cuneo reached the camp in safety.

At the last rapid, Old man 'frail' of his horse, Bill Beaver, Cuneo and Long Jim, the lovers of the Muck-All trip, were overboard to remark, in a weak voice, and his own peculiar language.

In the river the fishing is very good, black bass could be secured at the foot of the rapids, where the current is tearing down over boulders of immense size.

At the foot of the rapids, where the current is tearing down over boulders of immense size, the fish are very good, black bass could be secured at the foot of the rapids, where the current is tearing down over boulders of immense size.

From the top of Brown's hill there is obtained a magnificent view of the Lake. Belmont Lake, with its numerous shallow islands and sloping shores, is considered one of the prettiest lakes in the north country, and from the top of Brown's hill it appears it can be seen in all its glory.

The fishing in Belmont is not so good as one might expect, but the Muck-All trip, notwithstanding the score of fishermen on the lake, managed to secure more than they needed.

It was a healthy life the camp lived—up at sunrise in the morning, on the water and in the woods all day long, giving them an appetite as only roughing it can.

In the evening they enjoyed themselves with quiet Indian songs, accompanied by the cornet and harmonica. One evening having visitors they had an Indian real Indian Joe calling off.

One thing a stranger noticed on his arrival at Belmont is the wonderful echo—yell or a note from the forest can be heard repeating itself 4 or 5 times.

Between Belmont and Deer Lake there is a magnificent fall of about sixty feet. The water rushes over three steps each 20 feet high and presents a grand appearance.

Arriving at Lake Tugomung they camped for the night and started for home next morning, running every rapid with the skill which only an Indian can attain to. They camped on an island at the head of Crow Lake. A storm came up and they were besieged by an army of mosquitoes.

The island being very rocky afforded these pests a great opportunity for sharpening their bills before the attack, and it seemed as though the bulk of them studied anatomy from six in the evening till six in the morning.

At sunrise they started for the foot of the lake and here Injun Joe and Old man 'frail' of his horse had a wonderful fight. They landed six magnificent "lunge", the largest weighing about 12 pounds, and the others about 10 pounds each.

In the afternoon they succeeded in bringing in two more weighing 8 pounds apiece. So doubt more were taken but they were a 25 pound snapper the troll and went to the bottom of the lake with a very nice mouthful.

Sunday was spent very quietly and next morning Injun Joe and Old man 'frail' of his horse returned to the city for the purpose of the banks of Rawdon creek, leaving Cuneo and Long Jim for a few days longer.

The Dominion Illustrated.
A page of the last issue of the Dominion Illustrated presents a complete group of portraits of the Canadian Biscuit team of 1891, with a brief sketch of the shooting record of each in past years. It is timely and interesting. The visit of the Prince and Princess of Wales to the Canadian exhibit at the Royal Agricultural Fair, Vancouver, B.C., is also made the subject of a page of illustrations. From the Maritime provinces there is a view of Windsor, N. S., and one of the St. John's Club, Halifax, and a portrait and biographical sketch of E. H. Blake, a friend well known to the Dominion Illustrated. There is a portrait and interesting biographical sketch of the late J. Beauport Hurlbut, LL.D., widely known in connection with the Anti-Jewish agitation at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston; Interior of the Royal Albert Hotel, Vancouver, B.C.; and a view of the famous cathedral at Regina, Kansas, perhaps the finest specimen of Gothic architecture in existence, among other subjects of illustration, this charming number. The literary contents are not less interesting.

The New Canadian Magazine.
Canadian literary Monthlies have been short listed, but CANADA, a new literary magazine, has evidently come to stay. Since it was started in January, it has been welcomed with enthusiasm by all who are interested in Canadian literature and progress. Being brightly national and thoroughly patriotic, it draws its subscribers from all over the Dominion, and its articles are short and bright and all by Canadian writers or on Canadian themes. To those who read one of the St. John's Club, Halifax, and a portrait and biographical sketch of E. H. Blake, a friend well known to the Dominion Illustrated. There is a portrait and interesting biographical sketch of the late J. Beauport Hurlbut, LL.D., widely known in connection with the Anti-Jewish agitation at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston; Interior of the Royal Albert Hotel, Vancouver, B.C.; and a view of the famous cathedral at Regina, Kansas, perhaps the finest specimen of Gothic architecture in existence, among other subjects of illustration, this charming number. The literary contents are not less interesting.

The August number of the NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE is largely devoted to the light literature in reference to the depressing influence of the "dog days." A generous installment of the magazine with a most interesting article, "The Order of Sanctity," by a new and promising writer, Ellen Martin Harris, occupies several pages. Miss White will be remembered as the author of "Miss Brock's," a book which had a great vogue during the season of 1890. "A Side View of the Campaign" is a clever little story of newspaper work in a small country town, showing an intimate acquaintance with the inner workings and temptations of a country editor. The author's name, Mary E. Brook, is a new one to the readers of the NEW ENGLAND MAGAZINE. It will be well to watch for her in the future, and will surely be heard from again.
